TWO LITTLE GIRLS BITTEN

And a Brave Rescuer Showing Signs of Hydrophobia.

A little girl was taken by her badly frightened mother to the Pasteur Institute this morning to be inoculated and saved from the dreaded hydrophobia.

The girl had been bitten by a pet dog, who was still living and had not shown any signs off, but if the dog goes mad within a few days they are to come back.

This morning Dr. Gibier received a patient

one. The patient is a little girl from checked.

Nearly twenty-two days ago a pet dog bit her on the lips and gnashed out a small piece of flesh from the lower lip.

The children had been teasing the dog and it was furious when it bit the little girl. As yet no symptoms have been developed, but the doctor is very anxious over the outcome he makes the positive assertion that, since April 7, at least one-third of the city's street area has been swept clean every day, another third three times a week, and the remainder twice every seven days.

He raises she issue that the visits of the Health Department officials were made to the streets named before the time of day scheduled for the removal of as-hes and garbage by the carts of his Department. What Mr. Beattle says regarding the time of the inspection may be true, but his explanation does not explain why there should be found in the guitters of those streets piles of recking fiith, which gave syndence of having been collected aday or two before and which, satirated with rain and steaming under the hot rays of the sau, were giving forth stilling, disease-breeling oders. Neither does it explain why the sweepings of Monday night, in the streets in question, should be left in-collected all of yesteriay, as was proven to be the case by a visit to the neighborhood.
